

GIVE NAME OF TUMULTY IN NOTE LEAK

RESIDENT'S SECRETARY AND BROTHER-IN-LAW MENTIONED IN CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRY.

URGE A STAR CHAMBER

Congressmen Favor Secret Sessions for Purpose of Probing Stock Gambling Tips—Oakshosh Man Given Information.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The names of Joseph B. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, and Bernard Baruch, a New York stock market operator, were offered at the house rules committee hearing today by Representative Wood of Indiana, author of the resolution of investigation of whether there was a "leak" on information of President Wilson's peace note. Wood qualified his statement with a declaration that what information he had was only hearsay.

Wood declared that a Washington brokerage firm, F. H. Conway & Company, of which "a Mr. Bolling," a brother of President Wilson's wife, is a member, had profited on the market. These deals were transacted by a New York firm, Hutton & Company.

Consulted With Tumulty. "I am informed," Representative Wood emphasized, "that Baruch had information upon the note to the European belligerents two or three days before it was sent out, and that it was obtained about that time he was in consultation with Tumulty at a New York hotel."

The New York representative, a member of the committee, said on the floor Wednesday that he was reported in New York that 35,000 shares of steel were sold on a private market just before the note was published.

At the outset of the hearing the representative of Kansas subpoenaed Secretary Lansing and Thomas W. Lawson. He was asked to withdraw his motion, but said he would present it again later. Wood objected vigorously to testifying in public. He said most of the statements he made were from private correspondence with Mr. Curtis, a Wall Street mover, and said he had turned up the letter. He said a published statement would interfere with the work of the committee.

Favor "Star Chamber." Representatives of Chippewa and Porter of Illinois, who had been subpoenaed against any "star chamber" proceedings, and Representative Garrett of Tennessee moved that the session be made executive.

Chippewa insisted that as a witness should tell the truth, Wood should use to advantage of all the information in his possession. Wood had been informed that on Wednesday, Dec. 20, which was prior to publication of the note, a telegram was sent by I. W. Ginnon of Thomson & McKinnon, brokers of Chicago, to Ralph Hartley, manager of the New York City hotel, asking him to tell the president when he had a message of importance soon and that he should advise when, with a statement of his office to sell stock in the New York City hotel, mentioned in court as his informant.

The rules committee, after a brief session, announced that subpoenas had been ordered for the appearance of Mr. Curtis and the other members of the Wall Street brokers' firm mentioned in the testimony. They will probably appear Monday.

When Secretary Tumulty learned that Representative Wood had mentioned his name he issued a formal statement demanding public explanation of the charges. He said he had never been at the hotel mentioned in the testimony. He said he had never been in contact with the president's secretary until the note was published.

"I am very glad to say publicly that I have never seen the president's secretary until the note was published," said Tumulty. "I have never been in contact with the president's secretary until the note was published."

President's secretary meets a great many people every day and it is very easy for someone to circulate rumors.

Oakshosh Man's Statement. Joseph B. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, said the testimony of Representative Wood is correct in one respect and incorrect in others.

"I received notice of the expected message of the president," said Hartley. "However, it did not come from Mr. McKinnon nor from any one connected with the Thomson & McKinnon firm."

"No Such Telegram." "Chicago, Jan. 5.—When informed of the testimony of Representative Wood relative to the telegram said to have been sent by I. W. McKinnon of Thomson & McKinnon, brokers, to Ralph Hartley, manager of the New York City hotel, mentioned in court as his informant, Mr. McKinnon today declared positively that no such

Prominent Figures In Note "Leak" Inquiry

Thomas W. Lawson, financier who made millions when the news concerning President Wilson's peace note "leaked," is in Washington and says he is ready to set the world agast with revelations concerning similar "leaks" of the past twenty years. Representative Henry introduced a resolution calling for an investigation of whether there was a "leak" on information of President Wilson's peace note. It is to him that Lawson has addressed several letters, in which startling accusations against congressmen have been made.

Telegrams had been sent by him or to his knowledge.

Curtis In Denial. New York, Jan. 5.—The only "A. Curtis" known to the New York Stock Exchange as a broker, is Allen Curtis of the firm of Curtis & Sanger of New York and Boston, members of the exchange. When inquiry was made today as to whether Curtis was the broker referred to by Representative Wood, the firm got in touch by wire with Mr. Curtis in Boston, who replied as follows: "Mistaken identity. I never wrote anyone."

CHIEF RECOMMENDS CHANCE FOR HEMMING

Explains Reason He Made No Complaint to Revoke License in Communication to Commission.

In a communication to the city commission presented to Mayor James A. Fethers this morning, and later filed by him with City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund, Chief of Police P. D. Champion announced that he would make no complaint asking for the revocation of the saloon license of W. J. Hemming, who plead guilty to the charge of selling liquor to a minor, and was fined thirty dollars and costs a week ago in municipal court. Chief Champion explained the reason for his not making a complaint was due to the excellent record Hemming has established as a respectable retail liquor dealer during his many years of business in the city and that since other liquor dealers have been given opportunity of living down first offenses the chief sees no reason why Hemming should not be dealt with accordingly.

His communication, which was to be acted on by the commission at its meeting this afternoon, Jan. 4, 1917.

To the Mayor and Council: Dear Sirs: In regard to the case of J. W. Hemming, I desire to report that the council for the revocation of his license owing to the fact that it is his first offense in fact it is the first time this man has had any complaint of any kind against him.

Have sent cards to every liquor dealer in the city specifically calling their attention to the ordinance and state laws governing the sale of liquor to minors. These laws I intend to see enforced to the letter. Hereafter all minors will be arrested and prosecuted by P. D. CHAMPION, Chief of Police.

"As long as I have been on the police department I have never heard anything complained against the Hemming saloon," said the police chief this morning. "Mr. Hemming is one of the few liquor men in the city who is a highly respectable saloon and has adhered to state laws and city ordinances."

"On complaints the commission have had other saloon proprietors on the carpet. They have had opportunity, a second chance, to make good. I believe it is only fair that Hemming should be treated likewise."

A copy of the resolution was called to the attention of the city commission, and counsel for the Six Companies has decided to take the steps necessary to inform Secretary of State Lansing of the nature of the proposed treaty.

GREGORY READY TO BUST PAPER TRUST

Washington, Jan. 5.—Attorney General Gregory had in his hands today the fruit of the federal trade commission's inquiry into the news printing industry with the intention of instituting civil and criminal action if it found a paper trust had been formed.

"I know, of course, from what has already been brought out," wrote the attorney, "that a serious condition exists in this trade, and any remedy which the law may afford should be applied at once."

President Wilson is said to be actively interested in the paper trust. The commission expects to report to congress within a few days the result of its inquiry.

POLICE CONVINCED SUICIDE CLEARS UP ART MODEL'S MURDER

B. W. Lewis, Son of Pittsburgh Coal Operator, Believed to Have Been Mafie Colbert's Slayer.

Philadelphia, Jan. 5.—Circumstantial evidence which the police say convinces them that Bernard W. Lewis, son of a wealthy retired Pittsburgh coal operator, who ended his life in an Atlantic City hotel last night, was the slayer of Mafie Colbert, the artist's model, was revealed early today by an examination of the young man's body. Lewis shot himself as he was about to be arrested.

Lewis was identified by Elwood Powell, the chauffeur who drove him, and the Misses Phyllis and Mabel Kyle and the house in Germantown last Thursday night, as the man he took to Miss Colbert's apartment. Philadelphia detectives who went to Atlantic City last night say that Lewis' hair matches that found clutched in the dead girl's hand, and Lewis was found to be wearing a woman's garment, which corresponded to garments worn by Miss Colbert. A blood-stained handkerchief was found in his pocket. Lewis left no statement, however, as far as could be learned.

In view of these developments the authorities say they feel that the mystery virtually has been solved. At the same time it was declared that several men who were friends of Miss Colbert, and were suspected of having knowledge of the crime, will be kept under surveillance until there is no doubt regarding their connection with the case.

In this case the police have questioned many young men prominent in social and business life in Philadelphia. Several of them admitted they had known the girl and some said they had been her admirers. Except two or three, the explanations were satisfactory to the detectives, and their names were not made public.

So far as the detectives' department is concerned, "the case virtually is closed," Lewis' quick death in Atlantic City and the circumstances connected with the case and there is no question but that Lewis was the man who did the killing.

Captain Tate said several letters were found in Lewis' effects in Atlantic City. Torn scraps of what appeared to have been a letter also were found. These will be brought to the city, the captain stated, in an effort to get a lead from them the real motive of the murder. Among the papers was a list of telephone numbers, one of which was that of the Russo-German hotel. This, Captain Tate said, was proof Lewis was known to Miss Colbert. The police discarded the theory that a third person was present in the room at the time of the murder.

While the police say they are convinced that Lewis was the man responsible for the death of the girl, they are not ready to believe that the crime was premeditated. It is their belief, they say, the murder was the result of a quarrel over a woman, or of jealousy aroused by attentions of other men.

Misses Ethel and Mabel, the school teacher who had known Lewis for a year and who furnished his name to the police when they learned he was still suffering from the shock of the day over further revelations and the suicide of their friend. They told Lewis, of his affable and gentle manner, and that he was a very nice fellow. They told also, in greater detail, of his last visit to this city, of how he took the two sisters to tea and Friday night at a private party at the hotel. They said he was very friendly and that he was a very nice fellow.

NEW POLISH REGENT IS WISE SELECTION

Warsaw, Jan. 5.—By those who know him, Archduke Charles Stephen, cousin of the late Emperor Francis Joseph, who has been selected as regent of Poland, is considered a wise selection. He is a man of common sense, ability and personal charm. Conditions under which he recently made his acquaintance illustrate the democratic side of his character. The correspondent was talking to a friend at one of the less formal dinners in Vienna.

The archduke conversed with the greatest cordiality, displaying an intimate knowledge of the current events of the world and a keen interest in the progress of the war. He was particularly impressed with the importance of the press in the war and lamented the fact that the newspapers did not play such a role in Austria-Hungary. He voiced as well as manifested his belief in democratic principles and declared that he had deliberately urged two of his youngest sons, who had graduated from the Austrian military academy, to join the ranks of the officers and soldiers from the ranks of his people.

LACK FOUR JURORS IN AIR BUBBLE CASE

Onley, Ill., Jan. 5.—A special venire was called to court today when the trial of Roy Hinterslitter for the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Elizabeth Radcliff, was held. The venire was composed of twelve men, but four were excused, leaving only eight.

SMITH'S SON ON STAND IS STRONG CARD

TEN YEAR OLD LAD TELLS HOW HIS FATHER SENT HIM TO SELL DEAD MOTHER'S HAIR.

Delavan, Jan. 5.—Not in years have the residents of Walworth county been so aroused as they are at the present time over the testimony thus far introduced at the preliminary hearing of Lewis Smith, charged with the murder of his wife at their home in Delavan.

Originally designated as a suicide by hanging the authorities are slowly but surely weaving a network of incriminating circumstances about the prisoner, which may lead to his being held for trial before the circuit court on the charge of murder in the first degree.

With watery eyes, brimming with tears and a trembling voice, Kenyon Smith, aged ten, the son of the dead woman, told his pitiful story of how even on the night before his mother's funeral, while her body lay at the undertaker's awaiting burial, his father sent him to various barber shops in Delavan with combs from the dead mother's hair to sell.

Kenyon was a telling witness for the prosecution and with trembling lips, told of the mother love he missed and the struggle the dead woman had undergone before deciding to leave her husband and home, taking her children with her.

Dan Torrisi, the Deloit Italian detective, who had occupied a cell next to Smith in the jail, after his arrest and had heard him make an alleged confession of the suspected man, took the stand and gave his story to the court. Smith had denied this alleged confession, but it is expected the preliminary hearing will be completed Saturday and it is expected Smith will be held for trial.

On Friday, the first day of the hearing, over two hundred people from all parts of Walworth county congregated in the court room for the first time since the murder of twenty years. The hearing progressed slowly, attorneys for both the prosecution and the defense quizzing each witness in a most exhaustive manner.

Smith was in the best of health as late as 9:30 o'clock the evening before her death was brought out by Mrs. Richard Smith, who lives at the Bradley goods store in Delavan, who told of a conversation she had had with Mrs. Smith while selling her a pair of gloves on the evening before her death. Mrs. Smith had seemed to be in cheerful, natural frame of mind, and had remarked about the present high cost of living that in any event, "I guess we'll all be here in the spring."

It is believed that a telling blow will be dealt the defense in the testimony of Detective Dan G. Torrisi and Al. M. Truesdell of Deloit, who in their testimony said that they had seen Smith on the night of the murder, and that they had seen him on the night of the murder.

Delavan chief of police, in the trial, told of his visit to the Smith home the day the tragedy was discovered, giving a verbatim repetition of conversation with Smith in regard to the murder of his wife which Smith is said to have burned.

Mrs. Dora Loomer, a next door neighbor of the Smiths, testified that Mrs. Smith was generally a very cheerful woman. The bulk of the testimony taken yesterday was that of various physicians who had been called after the body had been found.

Dr. W. W. Crockett of Deloit in regard to the presence of what was held to be blood stains on the woodwork of a room in the Smith house, not the one in which the body was found, however, aroused great interest among the attorneys and the spectators at the trial and brought out a long cross-examination, in which it was shown that the blood stains were not blood.

When questioned Dr. Crockett stated that he did not have the necessary instruments at hand to determine whether the blood was human or not.

Dr. Samuel Hopkinson, the expert pathologist from Milwaukee, who had been summoned just after the death to perform the autopsy, in his testimony yesterday gave a graphic description of the marks found on Mrs. Smith's neck. A shudder passed through the audience as he twisted a piece of the very rope by which Mrs. Smith had been hanged from a lamppost in her kitchen, about his neck, and with the attorneys and Justice Williams gathered closely about him moved his head about to show how the rope would cut into the flesh.

A number of the spectators imitated the demonstration with their hands. Dr. Hopkinson testified that no matter what any contributing causes had been, death was due to suffocation by a constricting band about the neck.

Testimony of Dr. Hopkinson in regard to a number of contusions and

Senator Lewis Fears U. S. May Be Dragged Into European War

Washington, Jan. 5.—Speaking in the senate today in support of the Hitchcock resolution to declare the President Wilson's peace note, Senator Lewis, democrat, declared the European war could not continue without the United States becoming involved in it.

Senate Republicans caucused today on whether to take party action in relation to an endorsement of the sending of President Wilson's peace note or whether they shall further oppose the adoption of the resolution and present a substitute representing republican views.

Useless to Quote Terms. London, Jan. 5.—Publication of German peace conditions would be useless in view of the attitude of the British and French Press, according to the Berlin Lokai Anzeiger as quoted in an Amsterdam dispatch to Reuters. The Anzeiger based its opinion on the resolution in the French senate that France could make no peace with an enemy who occupied French territory.

"Publication of our conditions," the paper says, "would not be undignified, and moreover would not be of the least use."

"We must show to the door any neutral who would dare to demand from us that we should regard as an suggestion without condition for opening negotiations is no peace offer. We must refer such a neutral to the resolution of the French senate."

excoriations in addition to the marks made by the rope, further corroborated the evidence of Dr. F. A. Raborator Delavan, who had made an examination of the afternoon of Mrs. Smith's death.

Isaac Bowers and L. R. Lackey, Delavan, who were the only two witnesses examined yesterday. Detectives and many Delavan people were on hand waiting for the relatives give testimony. Although Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Smith were on hand, it is expected that some will be called as witnesses today or tomorrow.

ELEVEN CHILDREN KILLED IN TORNADO

Muskogee, Okla., Jan. 5.—The second tornado to visit this section of the country within two weeks, swept an intermittent path across Oklahoma and Arkansas yesterday, claiming eleven lives, all school children, and injuring many more, that it was believed today that the death toll would mount much higher.

The bulk of the property loss occurred in the valley town of Vireton, Okla., thirteen miles north of Muskogee. The school building and west of McAlester. The school building was dashed to pieces, and children and timbers were hurled through the air by the fury of the blast. Bodies were picked up one hundred yards from where the school stood, being blown across a ravine and settling up on the opposite hillside. Of the twenty-nine persons in the building, only two escaped injury.

Four names were given by the death toll southwest Oklahoma yesterday. The four were pupils at a school house which was demolished by the storm. The other three were killed by the storm. The number known to be seriously injured at eight.

INDIA'S SNAKES KILL 28,000 DURING YEAR

Simla, India, Jan. 5.—More than 28,000 people were killed by snakes and wild animals in British India last year. The government reports show that 1,923 persons were slain by tigers and other beasts, and 23,855 perished through being bitten by reptiles.

The figures are available for the native states with their population of some 90,000,000.

During the past five years elephants, tigers and other animals have killed 1,923 people in British India, and of these, tigers have claimed a toll of 3,682. In the same period 1,828 persons have died as the result of snake bites.

Last year the highest total of deaths due to animals in any one province was in Bihar and Orissa, where 684 people lost their lives. Tigers alone accounted for 376, in the United Provinces one man-eating tiger in the Almor district killed ten persons out of the provincial total of twenty.

In order to effect the destruction of as many wild animals and snakes as possible the government has organized a corps of men to kill animals. In 1915 was 255,036, including 1,582 tigers, 6,623 leopards, 2,673 bears and 2,191 wolves. The total number of snakes killed was 184,673.

TRADE BOARD HEAD HAS RESIGNED POST

Washington, Jan. 5.—Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the federal trade commission, has unexpectedly resigned to resume business in Chicago. He had a personal conference with President Wilson and his resignation was accepted.

WILL REJECT CLAUSES IN ALLIES' NOTE

GREEK GOVERNMENT CANNOT ACCEPT ENTENTE DEMANDS OF REPARATION FOR ATHENS FIGHTING.

Stand Ready to Submit to Coercion, Believing Nation's Position Will Be Vindicated Later.

OPPOSED TO WAR MOVE

London, Jan. 5.—The Greek government, acting in harmony with the king, has decided to reject certain clauses of the entente note demanding reparation in consequence of recent fighting at Athens. Reuter's correspondent telegraphed.

To Say Out of War. The Greek government is ready to discuss the other demands made by the allies. It has been determined not to declare war on the entente, but to submit to all coercion, relying upon ultimate recognition by the powers that a blockade is an unmerited punishment.

King Constantine yesterday consulted with former premiers, who agreed unanimously that the note in its present form was not acceptable, although compliance with the demands would be equivalent to administration of justice. The king also stated that there was foundation for the charges of unjust treatment of former Premier Venizelos' supporters.

To Pardon Venizelos. In regard to the imprisonment of Venizelos, it is stated that the king is ready to pardon some or all of those convicted, but under the constitution is unable to interfere with the judicial procedure before these men are tried.

COURT RULES "WETS" HAD THE MAJORITY

Memphis, Minn., Jan. 5.—After a wet and dry contest, lasting since last August, Beltrami county, Minnesota, officially went "wet" last night, when Judge C. W. Stanton handed down a decision in favor of the liquor interests. Dry interests declared today they will carry the decision to the highest court.

The proceedings started immediately after the election August 14, when the wet won by thirteen votes. The count was demanded by the prohibitionists. The recount revealed six blank ballots, and these went to the wets, giving them nineteen lead. The question of whether the Red River reservation land would be allowed to vote was raised.

In his decision, based on a section of Minnesota statutes which provide that anyone of mixed blood who has adopted a civilized mode of living is entitled to a vote, Judge Stanton declared there are sufficient halfbreed voters to make Beltrami county even wetter, should another vote be taken.

STRIKERS RELEASED WITH COURT LECTURE

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 5.—Failure to identify any of the fifty-three workmen as those who were responsible for violence to the employees of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company, in Camp 41, last Monday, as those who delivered the threats to the lumbermen, caused Judge J. C. Carey to dismiss the complaint and discharge the defendants when their trial was started here last night. Judge Carey in discharging the defendants said, earnestly:

"Those of you men who don't want to work, had better leave the country and stay out. We don't want you here. There is plenty of work for those who are honest and law-abiding. I hope that this case convinces you of the folly of striking when you do not know what you are striking for. We don't want that class of men in this country, and they will not be tolerated any longer."

ENGLAND SPEEDS ITS SHIPBUILDING

London, Jan. 5.—The question of expediting ferocious shipbuilding is receiving attention from government authorities and a "speeding up" order has gone forth to various shipyards where the tonnage under construction is believed to be very large. Lack of labor and materials seem to be the chief drawbacks, and in all probability skilled men will be brought back from the front to enable the furnaces to be kept at full utilization of women workers will probably be carried still further.

Besides the large number of orders on hand, these shipyard firms have each ordered a large cargo of over a thousand tons, the P. and O. company have placed an order for a big passenger liner and the Cunard line have ordered seven big steamers.

In various yards around the coast ship repairing is being conducted as rapidly as the moderate amount of labor will allow. The recent stormy weather having caused a considerable increase in the demand for repairs. Several new steamers are being fitted out, notably a ten thousand ton liner, the Clyde, a Royal Navy liner at Belfast and the twenty thousand ton Red Star Belgenland where some two thousand men are employed.

In the Belfast district, additional building work which has been started will allow for the construction of sixteen large steamers.

The first contract to be sent out by the officials of the Philadelphia
National league club in a few days will go to Grover Alexander, whose previous contract expired with the season of 1915. Both President Wilson, F. Baker and Manager Patrick
Moran say that they have no doubt about the league's star pitcher being perfectly satisfied with the terms of his new contract. They know well what Alexander expects and are ready to give as much to him, perhaps more. Alexander has been to the Philadelphia club in recent years and according to reports from Philadelphia several of the Phillies are to be granted increases in pay and some who have been getting more than their share justified are likely to suffer a cut in salary.
Eddie Plank insists that rare use of the curve ball has been the greatest factor in prolonging his career as a pitcher. Plank claims that dur-four fast balls to one curve. Con-wear the strength of the salary whip, according to Eddie.

PARK ASSOCIATION MEETS JANUARY 18

Annual Election of Directors and Decision of Date of Nineteen-Seventeen Fair to Be Decided.
On Thursday, January 18th, the stockholders of the Janesville Park association will hold their annual meeting and election of seven directors at the assembly room of the city hall. The official call for this meeting was mailed out this afternoon by Secretary Harry Nowlin. Aside from the report on the past year's work, the election of seven new directors will be held, who will in turn select the officers. Under the resolution adopted at the last annual meeting the directors elected this year will be divided into three classes—three to serve for three years, two for two years and two for one year. This year's class with a view of not making a complete change in the entire board each year, and the possibility of undoing work begun under regime by an entirely new board, the question of the date of the holding of the Janesville Fair will also be considered. There has been a decided expression of opinion that it would be better for the fair, and it is possible the time set will be either just before or just after the state fair in September. The August date is considered too early to bring best results in attendance and displays, and after the threshing and haying is finished the farmers would have more time to enjoy the various exhibits that are gathered there each year.

DR. L. J. WOODWORTH WILL BE IN CHARGE OF DENTAL CLINIC

Clinic Room at City Hall Will Be Open
Two Mornings Each Week After Inspection Work Is Completed.

The board meeting of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, held Thursday at the rest room, was mainly given up to the affairs of the dental clinic. A resume of this work was given by the chairman, Mrs. Percy Munger, who reported that the free clinic would open next week with Dr. Lee Woodworth in charge. The office in the city hall would be kept open two mornings a week for this work. The inspection of children's teeth in the city schools will also begin this week, being held in each school building. The local dentists volunteer for this work and a list of ladies to assist in the inspection was made at yesterday's meeting. Much time has been lost so far this year, but now arrangements have been made with the city for the sum of $400 per year to prosecute the work. It will be taken up with renewed vigor. Inside the work of the dental clinic, various routine matters of business were transacted. A report of the treasurer, Mrs. H. D. McDowell, showed that it was cost about $100 per month to keep the rest room in running order. She reported that a bond for $500, bearing interest at 6 per cent, had been purchased, and including the $150 now available for the rest room fund, from the city budget, there was about $600 on hand. The board of managers was hopeful that they may be able to finance the rest room another year, without using the $500 bond and save that amount as a nest egg toward a woman's building, which is a long dream of the future. A piano has been placed in the room for the use of the patrons. It is owned by the matron, Mrs. Fenn, and is much enjoyed by the girls who come to the room for their noon luncheon. A motion was passed to co-operate in the organization and maintenance of a Red Cross movement to be started immediately in the city. The use of the rest room for the work of preparing supplies was offered, but owing to the limited space it was deemed best to suggest that larger quarters would be more convenient. The basement work room of the library, and the old council chamber of the city hall, were both recommended as more suitable for the purpose. Miss Cobb was made chairman of the membership committee and Mrs. Helms chairman of the education committee. The board voted to endorse the survey of school buildings as recommended by the school board, and the meeting closed with a report of the moving picture situation in Janesville, given by the chairman of the education committee.

D. E. S. STUDY CLASS HAS MEETING ON THURSDAY

About twenty-five members of the Study Class of the O. E. S. met with Mrs. Maymer on North Academy street for the first regular meeting of the new year on Thursday afternoon. It was a very quiet meeting after the strenuous efforts of the holiday season. Response to roll call was given by the members with "Thoughts Worth While" and Mrs. H. Garbutt gave an entertaining reading, while the ladies busied themselves with sewing and fancy work. The vice-president, Mrs. L. Amerpohl, presided, and delicious refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Charles Wright and Miss Sue Hutchinson.

LETTERS CONTRAST SERVICE IN ARMIES

One From Border Bespeaks Disaster—The Other a Resignation of Personal Interests to the Cause.

An intimation of the great difference which exists between the "life in the trenches" which the militia on the border has been leading, and the real active service in the European war, can be gleaned from a comparison of two letters recently received by citizens of Janesville. One is from a member of a militia battery on the Mexican border, and the other from an English soldier fighting in France. Perhaps the most striking difference that confronts the reader at once is the difference in censorship which is maintained by the European forces, and which permits of practically no information going to outside sources; whereas movements of troops and all details of life on the border are public property.

The letter from the border militiaman starts out in a rather cynical vein. "The foolish desire for military training caused us to form this battery," he writes, "and now we are to be sent to the front with our big guns and horses. Our Big Uncle soon changed our minds, for hardly was the organization a week old when we were sent to the front. We received three good months' training there and thought we were killed with the work, but it was a paradise compared to the two months that followed for now we are terribly short handed and have a great deal of fatigue duty besides our regular work with guns and horses.

"The men found army life distasteful and deserted until we had only about ninety men for duty, when one hundred and seventy-seven is the required number.

"The last of September found us packing up and entraining for some where on the border. When the train stopped on the morning of the third day we found the camp was Deming, New Mexico; we made camp on a desert, which after a few weeks, proved quite comfortable.

"When we had worked hard and were enjoying some belated comforts, an order was received to march from Deming to El Paso, a distance of some 100 miles. It was the longest hike ever undertaken by militia artillery and was through a desert country where watering places for the men were forty-five miles apart. We made the trip in great time and without an accident to a man, but two of our horses were crippled and now their bones are out there on those hot sands.

"So El Paso has been our new camp for some twenty-five days and we are looking fondly for another order to pack up and move, with every heart bent upon a move home, for over five months of pyramidal tents and hiking and sleeping on the ground becomes tiresome."

In the other letter, although there is no real information, there seems to be a totally different spirit, and according to many, is typical of the attitude of the British troops. " * * * of course," the writer states, "you will understand that we have to keep off all military matters in our correspondence, which is quite right. But can I tell you that I am quite all right, only very lame in one leg, but that is the result of cricket some four years ago, and barring that I am in the best of health. Plenty of good food and a decent bed; of course it's a bit hard, being on the boards, compared with the feather ones at home, but we can expect a rough, it a bit on active service—we keep looking on the bright side of things and looking ahead to the time when we shall all be back again."

BELOIT BOY HEADS CARAVAN SEEKING TIBET'S SECRETS

Heads Expedition for New York
Museum of Natural History—Perilous Journey Just Pleasure Jaunt.

Beloit, Wis., Jan. 5.—Up in the old fastnesses of the Himalayas which have kept Tibet undefined by foreign invasion, except when Chinese hordes overran the lofty kingdom in 1720, a Beloit boy, Roy Andrews, and his wife are heading a caravan of sixty natives into the territory no white man has ever seen. The perilous expedition is being made in the interests of the New York Museum of Natural History, of which Andrews is assistant curator. The expedition seeks native fauna and big game and will be out of touch with the civilized world for eighteen months.

Here Andrews and his wife will shoot tigers and other big game for nearly a year, pushing on in the wildest when specimens of the game they seek have been procured. In addition to keeping her husband's stockings serviceable at the toes, Mrs. Andrews is acting as the official photographer of the expedition. She is an expert in color photography and the films she will bring from the forbidden country are expected to prove of the greatest value to science.

For Mrs. Andrews the expedition is a jaunt literally from the courts of Europe to the fastnesses of a kingdom that antedates civilization. Born in France, she was educated in Germany, where in Berlin she was a friend of daughters of Kaiser Wilhelm. She is one of the few women, it is said, for whom the kaiser has ordered his crack regiment of cavalry to pass in review.

LOCAL SUGAR FIRM CHANGES CONTRACTS

Will Pay at Flat Rate of Seven Dollars a Ton—Labor More Expensive.

In compliance with the popular demand for a new form of contract with producers of sugar beets, the Rock County Sugar company announces that they are ready to offer a contract which conforms to the wishes of the Beet Growers' association as expressed in the recent negotiations with the company at Kenosha.

By this contract the local sugar firm agrees to pay producers a flat rate of seven dollars a ton for beets. On the part of the company, it is the new contract is no more desirable than the old one, but has proven more popular with the farmers. By the old contract the company paid a flat rate of six dollars a ton for beets, with an increase of a dollar a ton for every increase of a dollar a hundred for sugar. Producers are now offered their choice of either this contract or of the new one announced today.

Another change in the arrangements with producers is also announced, which calls for a new type to the company of twenty-four dollars per acre for the land labor furnished by the imported employees of the company. Of this one dollar is used for the transportation expenses of this labor and for expenses incurred in securing it. The new price is an increase of three dollars over that which formerly prevailed. It was declared necessary because of the greater demand on the part of the laborers. This is the price paid by all producers in this state and in many other beet regions of the middle west.

MAPS SHOW BOUNDARIES OF SCHOOL DISTRICTS

Superintendent O. D. Antisdel is preparing township maps of Rock county which will show the boundary lines of the rural school districts. A preliminary map of the township of the legislature requires that the county committee on education and the county superintendent of schools shall prepare such maps. The task is found to be especially difficult since there are no previous maps of school districts in existence, and it is necessary to refer to the tax rolls to determine what property is taxed in the various districts.

PHILIPPINE CONGRESS REORGANIZED ITSELF

Manilla, P. I., Jan. 5.—The work of the first Philippine congress is largely concerning itself with reorganization of the government along more independent lines. Heretofore all legislative measures in the Philippines have begun with the words "By authority of the congress of the United States, be it enacted by the Philippine legislature." One of the first measures passed by the new insular congress was a change to read "The Senate and House of Representatives in congress assembled, do enact, etc., meaning, of course, that the Philippine congress is now acting on its own authority.

A bill for the organization of six executive departments has passed both houses of congress. The departments are those of public instruction, interior, finance, justice, agriculture, and natural resources, and commerce and communications. The department of public instruction is to be headed by an appointee by the president of the United States who will be vice-governor of the Philippines, and the insular congress will have no voice in his naming; but the other departments may be headed by local appointees who will probably be selected from the Philippine congress.

The bill provides that the bureau of civil service shall be under the direct control of the governor-general. A measure designed to keep the bureau from the contamination of politics from the new department heads will comprise the cabinet of the governor-general and be responsible to him, and their presence may be required in either house of congress which, in this way, hopes to keep final control of their actions in its own hands.

The congress is endeavoring to avoid "filibusters" and the senate has adopted a rule that no member may use more than three hours in speaking on a measure after two senators by a minority have spoken, and a vote of the majority may close the debate.

A rich, hot cup of INSTANT POSTUM with sugar and cream is a most delicious beverage.

Try it!—particularly if you are one of those with whom coffee disagrees.

A dozen years ago POSTUM drinkers were comparatively few. Today, this table drink is served on railway trains, on ocean steamers, at leading hotels and restaurants, and millions use POSTUM instead of coffee at home.

POSTUM has become popular because it is popular to be healthy.

DESERVES CREDIT.

Chief of Police Peter Champion deserves credit for the fearless manner he has tackled the various liquor violations that have existed in the city. Alleged "blind tigers" have been raided without fear or favor and while some of the persons suspected of alcohol evasions of the law have obtained temporary relief by a clever appeal to a higher court, still the fact remains that the wedge has been driven home and it will be harder than ever to obtain a drink on the seventh day from now on.

Nor is this the only credit that should be recorded to the chief. He has caused the arrest of two persons who were charged with selling liquor to minors and obtained convictions in both cases. In one case, where the offender was a repeated offender, and had been cautioned on numerous occasions, the license was revoked, and in the other he has filed a statement to the effect that he is the first complaint filed against him, and that he will be a law-abiding citizen from now on.

Nor has the work stopped there. The rest of the retail liquor dealers have been warned against infringement of the laws and ordinances and while the majority of them obey them, still a few offenders put a black eye upon the whole guild. It is estimated he will go further and take to task the pool room owners who permit youths to loiter about their places of business, play pool, smoke and otherwise demean themselves in an improper manner. Card gamblers who are permitted to take part are also on the list to be taboed and the era of a radical reform has begun.

The Gazette stands for good government and is behind any city official or any organized committee that stands for the best interests of the community. Like the chief of police and City Attorney Lange, it holds no brief for any element and is free to express its approval or disapproval of public acts of persons to whom the morals of the city are entrusted. At the present time it sees fit to congratulate both City Attorney Lange and Chief of Police Champion for their recent action.

WHY THE DISTINCTION?

Press dispatches announce that Senator Skowronski has arrived in Madison with his family for the session of the legislature to take up his work as progressive floor leader in the senate. The same authority states that Assemblyman Rosa of Rock county will be given a complimentary vote by the progressive for his assistance in the legislature. Why the distinction? Why call him elected as a republican, on a republican ticket, on a republican platform, floor leaders of the anti-administration forces where except for their personal acquaintance and in influence they would have been defeated while the republican state ticket was triumphant. Is the old fight of two years ago to be renewed at Madison? Are the "tax eaters" to try and defeat the "tax-savers" measures of the administration, if possible, by clever floor leaders? Is this the true ideal of government? Is it what the taxpayers of the state expect? The Gazette does not pretend to know what the movers plan for the future, but it is safe to say it is in accord with the republican platform that elected him for a second term, while these representatives of a small portion of the state, a county, or a part of a county, will seek to repudiate the great mass of the voters of the state by their own individual preferences and desires.

Of course if there were not serious differences of opinion on public affairs this would be a genuine Utopia, but why continue to divide the republican party into two factions?

MODERN ASTROLOGY.

People who have a leaning toward the occult have been talking about the death of Madame de Thebes, the famous Parisian astrologist and clairvoyant. The most rational skeptic can scarcely account for some of her forecasts. Among her claims of correct predictions were the European war, San Francisco earthquake, and Galveston flood. But she went wrong on forecasting the death of Kaiser Wilhelm, Sept. 29, 1914.

In this scientific age astrology is regarded as a remnant of superstitious lore. Yet the number of people who believe in it and follow the practitioners of the art is more than most people realize. The occult, the dark side of nature, the unseen forces of the world, have for them an endless fascination.

It is an amusing side of human life, except that many people are forever rushing to the astrologist and the clairvoyant for decisions in doubtful matters, when they ought to think things out for themselves. Before making any important business change, they consult some of these veiled prophets. The seer being a person of keen perceptions, can make a shrewd guess from the facial aspect and mannerisms of the client. In many cases the opinion proves to be correct, but it was the astrologist's reading of human character rather than the occult influence of Jupiter or Saturn.

Of course there is a twilight zone of intuition where human powers have never been quite defined. The possibility of thought transference is maintained by many scientists, and many singular coincidences suggest that it may be a reality. But when people have a difficult problem in life, they can find wiser advisers than the dumb voices of the stars and some mystic power, let them consult their own intelligence and that of their friends, and there will be fewer foolish mistakes in life.

THE DIARY HABIT.

One of the most prominent features of the early part of January used to be the keeping of diaries. Little black and red covered books neatly ruled and dated were a very favorite Christmas present. Some of them were large sized volumes with room for a very extended daily history of one's doings.

Most young people at some time or other tried keeping those books. The entries for the first week or two would be very detailed and complete. Not merely would personal events be chronicled, but the weather and local events were described. Many emotional young people detailed their states of feeling and mental reactions. By about January 15 it became an arduous task, and few diary keepers could keep it up much beyond February.

Occasionally one finds among household treasures, however, a well-kept diary of some of our ancestors. In the old days when life was quiet and there were few distractions, people of a literary and contemplative turn found journal keeping a very interesting diversion. They enjoyed reviewing the events of the day, and in after years it was a great pleasure to renew the experience of former times. Also it was an exceedingly convenient thing to have these personal records and many business disputes were settled by them. Some of these old diaries give a detailed accurate picture of the life of former generations.

The modern age is too swift to spend time in this way. It is all we can do to perform the duties and engage in the pleasures of the day, without stopping to record them. Few people spend hours in the contemplation of the past, and there is little room for the old time diary seems to have gone out, and our past history has gone into oblivion, with only the great landmarks of experience standing out.

RESULT OF PROSPERITY.

Much is being said, and well said, as to the obligations our new millionaires are incurring in spending the new money made out of war munitions and 1916 prosperity. But that doesn't hit most of us. The average man also may well ask what he is doing to make the present prosperity something more than a mere ephemeral wave of high prices and free spending.

A period of good business should be one of building on stronger and deeper foundations. It should be a time when our people should establish new and better civic institutions. There should be a more liberal feeling toward educational advance, and civic and social institutions.

In spite of general prosperity, it is still hard to get money for the best causes of philanthropy and civic betterment. There should in particular be better scholastic opportunities for capable young people. The boy or girl with brains and without money should not find so many obstacles in the way of a thorough education.

The average taxpayer should be more friendly toward these enterprising youth. He should realize that a higher national efficiency is called for, and to secure that efficiency we must throw open the doors of training wide to the poor boy and girl.

You may not be able to encourage people to save money by showing the satisfaction of having a bank account, but the thought that by such saving they could purchase an automobile on the installment plan, is tremendously stimulating to economy.

The fact that you can't get through a bill appropriating several hundreds of thousands to save human life does not mean that you can't pass one spending $20,000,000 for marble post offices.

Gen. Wood says that American boys could be trained to be soldiers in six months, and of course the enemy would be trained in the same length of time until we said we were ready.

While the stock market is quieting down, the public is carefully getting ready to get in again on the wrong side.

With waste paper bringing good prices, some people see a use even for the January 1st bills.

BENEATH HER STATION.

—Courtship after marriage is more important than it was before.—Prof. Simp.

Half a block away she saw a banana peeling lying face downward on the already wet and slippery pavement. The beautiful and graceful girl, who was so cool, had a horror of banana peelings. She grew faint, tottered, and fell.

"Leave it to me," cried the most thrilling masculine voice she had ever heard. And an athletic young man, neatly but honestly dressed, dashed down the pavement and kicked the banana peeling contemptuously into the gutter.

QUAKE IN JAPAN DID MUCH DAMAGE

Kobe, Japan, Jan. 5.—Damage caused by the earthquake of Sunday, Nov. 25, which was briefly reported by cable, was considerably greater than was first indicated.

The city of Kobe, one of the most beautiful places in Japan, stretching along the waterfront at the foot of picturesque mountains, found, after the subsidence of the shock, that a majority of its residences on the hillsides had suffered great damage. In this section are some of the finest houses, both Japanese and foreign, and many of them were so shaken that roofs fell in and walls tumbled into the streets.

It was the most severe shock experienced in central Japan in twenty-five years. In Kobe, the big railroad station lost most of its windows and the walls sagged in several places. The disturbance was accompanied by a roar, like the booming of a great cannon, with a heated, oppressive atmosphere, which caused an even greater panic than the damage justified. No one was killed and no buildings were entirely demolished, but cracked walls and damaged chimneys were general throughout central Japan.

A party of tourists who were spending the afternoon on the famous Rokkoso mountain, just behind the city of Kobe, are responsible for the story that they saw one of the neighboring hillsides move during one of the earth tremors.

Some of the Japanese earthquake experts believe the disturbance was due to the subsidence of subterranean fissures below the sea bottom off the city of Kobe.

JAP IMMIGRANTS TO SOUTH AMERICA

Tokyo, Jan. 5.—Nippon Yusen Kaisha, Japan's largest steamship company, has concluded an agreement with the South American Emigration Union for the transportation of 20,000 Japanese emigrants to South America within four years.

The company has also decided to open a regular quarterly service between Japan and South America with ships of about 4,000 tons each. They will be routed by way of South Africa, but the homeward bound route has never been selected.

Isao Kondo, president of the company, which has just declared a dividend of 28 per cent, issues a warning that the current shipping boom will be greatly changed after the war when the ships now used as military transports return to the carrying trade. In the meantime he declared the great increase in the cost of coal and other necessities would cut heavily into shipping profits.

During the last six months the company, which owns ninety-nine steamers and has ten others under charter, has transported a cargo approximating 245,000 tons and more than 137,000 passengers.

Speaking of the American service the president said the shipments from China showed a falling off and that Japan's export trade with the United States and the shipments of steel and cotton to far eastern countries were remarkably large.

MILWAUKEE DOCTOR FACES TRIAL TODAY FOR DEATH OF GIRL

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 5.—Dr. A. H. Little, Milwaukee surgeon, charged with manslaughter in the second degree in connection with the death of Miss Martha Dantes, Random Lake, at Sheboygan December 6, went to trial here today in district court. A. Haeske, Random Lake barber, Miss Dantes' sweetheart, will be tried with Little.

Little was arrested several weeks ago. Miss Dantes, according to testimony at the coroner's inquest at Sheboygan, made a dying statement to several nurses and physicians, in which she implicated Dr. Little.

RESOLUTIONS

There's a prejudice prevailing that we have a common failing, That the least we turn at New Year's soon are spoiled.

That our resolutions many dwindle soon to few, if any, And are spoiled.

Almost anyone who pleases springs the sickliest of wheezes And with japeries they sneer at us and smile.

And they chortle, "I've a sneakin' hunch you're more than sure to weaken, In a while."

"Down the straight and narrow hike it if you think you're going to like it."

I will gladly doff my little lid to you I'll applaud and cheer you, only— You'll be just a little lonely— If you do!

Far from us to scrap or bicker with these silly fools who snicker At the rest of us who try with all our might.

But at times we get so mad that we are tempted not to add that They are right!

furnished by May Robson, whose art in eccentric comedy impersonation is known to every American theatre-goer. Miss Robson is achieving marked success in the interesting and amusing comedy, "The Making Over of Mrs. Matt." The play won the immediate approval of all Miss Robson's admirers, to whom comedy and sentiment carry an appeal, when she first produced it on the Pacific coast last season. The comic possibilities of the story are now being realized to the utmost by Miss Robson and the players associated with her.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

Thelma Salter, with whom Frank Keenan will soon be co-starred in "The Crab," is the youngest member of the acting forces at Culver City, but is considered by many competent judges to possess more talent than many of her associates three or four times her age. It is expected that the general array of film fans will acquiesce in this opinion when "The Crab" is released.

Thelma takes the part of Ivy Marten, a homeless waif who is given a home by Foster Borrum, a grasping and unsympathetic man of affairs in a poor community. Borrum does not care for the child; he takes her in merely to pique the curiosity of his neighbors. Gossip of his ill-treatment of the little girl is spread among the neighbors, and Borrum is taken to court to answer the charges. His ward, who loves him in spite of his dour ways, becomes his star witness, and he is acquitted. In the end Borrum's hard shell of austerity is melted, and he decides to devote himself to the education and care of Ivy and the welfare of his neighbors.

Although she is barely seven now, Thelma has been a motion picture actress for three years. Her first success was in "The Flower of the Desert," and she also scored in "The Sign of the Rose."

HIS RISE WAS RAPID.

Herbert Brenon said he was an office boy earning $4 a week when he had the opportunity to go on the stage. He managed fine getting away from the office to be a super, except on Wednesday afternoons for matinees, and then he had a terrible time. All the family had been sick, so one Wednesday he told his "bos" that he was ill and he was excused for the day. That afternoon he met the "bos" at the theater and was so ashamed because he had been found out in his lie that he gave up his position. After that he worked at the theater altogether and two years later he played leads.

EPICUREAN DOG.

Curly Blackwell has a large and expensive dog, a Great Dane. The dog, while Blackwell was engaged in conversation, walked behind a lunch counter and ran up a bill for turkey. This was in a cafe on Broadway.

No restitution of the turkey was possible. The dog had it inside him. So Blackwell paid the bill, $7.50.

CHRISTINE

MILLER

The American Contralto

Exclusive Management Haensel and Jones Aeolian Hall, New York.

The story of Miss Miller and her rapid rise to supremacy in her chosen field of endeavor is typically American. Although of Scotch birth and ancestry this exquisite artiste has made her home in this country since very early childhood. In a few short years this winsome young contralto has become one of the most notable figures of the concert world.

The Directors of the Apollo Club desire to acquaint you with what the Apollo Club is doing musically for Janesville. Therefore a cordial invitation is extended to the public to hear CHRISTINE MILLER, the great American Contralto, in the fourth number in the series of recitals given by the Apollo Club this year.

You probably have heard Miss Miller on your Victor as her records are in great demand. You will therefore have the opportunity of hearing an d seeing in person one of the world's great artists.

Miss Miller will sing one of her Victor records. Then you may listen to a recreation of the same song on the talking machine.

Ordinarily for an entertainment of this character, single admission tickets would be issued at $1.50. To make this a popular concert, however, the Directors have decided to make the admission price but 25c—about the price it would cost to go to a movie.

The generous patronage accorded the Club this season has enabled the management to secure prominent artists for this season's recitals, such as it has never been enabled to do before.

Recent Brief Excerpts From the Press:

New York Times: "Her richness and power of voice adorned all these songs; and there was a special pleasure to be derived from her artistic phrasing and her exceptionally clear and finished diction."

New York Tribune: "Miss Miller's voice was vibrant, and she sang with feeling and remarkably clear diction."

New York Staats-Zeitung: "Her beautiful voice, sonorous in the lower register and in the higher occasionally soft as velvet, is capable of great shading, and her art of singing shows much dexterity." (Translation.)

Philadelphia Public Ledger: The musicianly sincerity of the interpretation and the naturally lovely quality of her voice imparted a telling pathos that made itself profoundly felt."

Boston Evening Transcript: "Miss Miller sings with a quick intelligence and a just feeling that heighten the beauty of her tones."

Boston Globe: "The voice is a beautiful one, used with true skill and artistic sense. It possesses color admirably suited to this music. The singing indicated interpretative perception of a high order."

Boston Christian Science Monitor: "Miss Miller gave a full-voiced and brilliant phrase study of the 'Joan of Arc' aria. Her reading of the text had dramatic attractiveness and her performance of the melody had great technical interest."

Charles Parrott is the director of the coming film comedy, "Chased by Love," featuring Hank Mann. He is only twenty-three years old and is one of the most successful comedy directors in the country. But the thing of which I am proud is in my baby daughter, Polly, says the youthful director.

Miss Cahill, best known hereabout for her appearance in vaudeville, is about to appear in moving pictures. This is to be in two-reel comedies. They will be directed by her husband, Daniel V. Arthur.

WOMAN'S PAGE

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson
Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have just been through a very trying experience and want to have your judgment as to whether I acted as a cad or the more I think of it the more I am convinced that I did.

The facts are these: I started going with a very beautiful girl, charming, refined and always exquisitely dressed. Her father was opposed to any young man calling on his daughter; not especially to me, but to any of the fellows. He gave as his reason that she was the only child and he had plenty of money he wanted her to be his companion for life and intended taking her on a trip around the world. Nevertheless I persisted and won the girl's consent—and that of her mother—to our marriage. Some time after this I discovered that I no longer loved her even after she had run the risk of her father's displeasure. The thing became unbearable until finally I told her just how I felt. I proceeded on the theory that it would be a terrible wrong to both of us to marry under the circumstances. It seemed to grieve her very much, indeed and I know it did because she was a very sincere girl. Was I a cad?

Well, she was not a cad. It is bad enough for a man to become engaged to a girl and then ask her to release him, but it would be worse if he should leave her. You should have given her a chance, by indifference on your part to break the engagement; then if she did not, you were at liberty to tell her frankly how you felt.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My cousin has been keeping company with my girl friend for a few months. At first she was very much about her, but then he grew indifferent. She can't seem to see the change in his regard for her and she invites him to her home to dinner every Sunday. He rarely accepts her invitation. Once in a while he takes her somewhere because he likes her in a way, but he is not in love with her. She thinks he is. Do you think I ought to tell her the true state of his feelings since I know? He tells me everything.

DOUBTFUL.

Don't tell her, because if you did she would probably not believe you and would hope against hope. In time she will learn for herself, which will be the natural way, and she will be able to bear the disappointment. You can help her most by proving yourself a friend when she is unhappy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-one years old and I accepted a diamond engagement ring from a young man although my parents oppose my marriage to him. Do you think I did wrong? I hate to disobey my parents. They seem to have no reason why they should not marry him except that they do not want to lose me. He is twenty-five years old and has a good position. He has money in the bank and is getting a raise this month. I will break my heart to give him up.

MOLLY.

You are the one to be considered in this matter. If you are sure you love the man and your parents have no good reason for opposing your marriage to him, do as your heart dictates.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I recently asked to take a very fine young lady home from church. She refused me and made me feel very badly. Would you advise me as to what I should do? I can see no reason why she should refuse me. I hate to give her up, as her parents seem to think well of me. I am deeply troubled about this. What shall I do? BROCK-BEAKER.

"Heart never won fair lady" seems to be applicable to your case. Ask her again and if she refuses take that answer as final.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it better to clip the ends of the hair or to singe them? DOUBTFUL.

Have the people consider it better to singe them because they do not split so easily again.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

TEASING A COUGH

What cough medicine is best for the ordinary cough?

Well, how long should we cut pants to fit the ordinary human being?

We think old-fashioned medicine is much better than the dose dispensed nowadays for conditions of which cough happens to be a prominent symptom. Grandma and the old women will please note, this in our favor. When any member of our own household develops a cough and it takes courage to do this in our household—we pretend we are not interested in the cough. And we are not. We are interested rather in determining what is the matter. If the cough persists upon having something to relieve the cough we instruct the nurse to prepare some flaxseed tea, and to administer a few ounces every half hour. The tea may be flavored with lemon juice and sweetened with glycerine.

If the illness be acute, accompanied by fever, chills, malaise, aches and pains, perhaps we vary the monotony by administering citrate of soda as an expectorant, diuretic, diaphoretic and corrective of acidosis. From five to thirty or more grains dissolved in a little water and flavored with licorice or whatever syrup may be preferred, every hour or two. Both of the foregoing remedies tend to loosen and aid the expectoration of mucus.

If the cough is accompanied by a very viscid or sticky expectoration and is aggravated by lying on the back and thereby cause the coughing, a grain or two of ammonium chloride may be given every two hours dissolved in a little water, milk or adjuvant elixir (National Formulary).

Better than cough medicine, in the beginning of any acute illness of which coughing or sneezing is a symptom, is a hot mustard foot bath administered to the patient in bed—and that is the only proper way to administer a h. m. t. b.

Hacking cough which disturbs sleep at night is relieved by placing a cold compress to the front of the throat. Wrapping a napkin or small towel out of very cold water, fold a compress about as large as both hands apply to throat and wrap some woolen flannel or some oiled silk about the neck to keep clothing dry. This soothes, relaxes and diminishes irritation. It may be changed after an hour or two.

The only trouble with the ready-made cough remedies, so-called, is that when you eliminate the narcotic ingredient, the medicine has nothing much left but the buncombe on the label.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Intrepid Volunteers.

Can you find room in the Bread and Milk Club for two new members weighing 141 and 150 pounds, both women about 63 inches high and on the safe side of thirty? If so, please give us the password, grip, by-laws and medal.

Answer—Welcome to our happy circle. Push over, there, girls, and let the fat women in. Monday is Milk Day. Glassful sipped slowly at 10:00, etc., throughout the dreary old St. Johns members take a cracker with each glass. Or a fourth of a slice of bread (no butter).

Lodine and Gottle.

Will iodine cure or stop a goitre? (Mrs. J. L. G.)

Answer—One type of goitre would be made worse by iodine. Let your doctor decide.

GINGLES' JINGLES

WILL.

Do you know that a man is the biggest thing that we have upon this earth; he is bigger than all the mountains combined, when he's willing to show his worth; he can go on over or go around, or deliberately go right through, it is only a case of what he wills, for what he wills, he'll do. He does not falter, he does not stop at the sight of a mighty wall, he makes up his mind what he wants to do, and he simply does—that's all; his will is supreme to everything else, 'tis only a case of I shall, for he can do what he wants to do with his "I can will" as a pal. We've had some men with a will to work, with a will to overcome, who know the commercial value of time—who would rather work than bum; they've made us the people we are today, and their stock in trade was the "I can will," they've conquered, because they've fought. The stunts they've done in the field of thought, and the field of action, too, we can repeat if we will to win—if we will to go on Emk Doyle

Household Hints

NEW WAYS TO FIGHT HIGH COST OF LIVING

A good wife is the best investment a man can make. When a single did not save a dollar. Now we are worth $10,000, and all from lessons of saving taught me by my wife. This confession has been made by many other men, but sometimes it is the other way around. Recent experiments have shown, in spite of much of the talk concerning the high cost of living, that many housekeepers do not market properly.

Mrs. J. C. Bley, president of the Chicago Housewives' League, in discussing the high cost of living, says: "American women must learn to have a minimum price when it comes to marketing. It is foolish to pay 40 or 50 cents a dozen for eggs. Stop using eggs, or use them only when absolutely necessary, until the prices drop."

Likewise, American housekeepers must learn the value of buying and using the cheaper cut of meat. Though we can no longer speak of potatoes as cheap, their cost can be reduced by cooking them with their jackets on. There are excellent mineral properties in the skins and it is delicious if cooked properly and is seasoned with cream and sugar or fruits. Fruits in season make nice, pensive desserts and often take the place of more expensive salads. Women must learn to be practical if they are not this by nature, for only 8 percent of the American women keep servants.

THE TABLE.

Sugar Twists—Use favorite baking powder biscuits. Do not cut into inch strips; form strips into rolls, holding ends in one hand, twist like a rope, place in narrow pan, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and bake in rather fast oven until lightly browned. These may be brushed over with milk or melted butter; before baking work fast that action of baking powder be not impaired.

Inexpensive Fruit Cake—Two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon ground cloves, one-half teaspoon ground nutmeg, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon ground cinnamon, one-half cup butter, one cup sugar, one cup milk, one egg, one-half cup raisins, one-half cup walnuts, salt, pepper, spices and baking powder; rub in butter and add sugar and fruit. Mix the soft dough with the egg and milk, and bake in loaf pan in moderate oven about three-quarters of an hour.

Potatoes en Surprise—Three cups mashed potatoes, one-half cup cold chopped onion, one-half cup cold onion juice, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon parsley, one teaspoon onion juice, one egg, dash of paprika and nutmeg, bread crumbs. Add salt, pepper, onion juice and nutmeg. Mix well. If too dry add a little cold milk. To the chopped meat add the rest of the parsley, a little salt and pepper. Flatten out. Flatten out a spoon, and mix with the potatoes and lay a little of the chopped meat in the center. Fold the potatoes around the meat, form into a roll about two and one-half inches long. Bake in moderate oven (covered). Roll in bread crumbs, then in egg beaten with one tablespoonful of milk, then again in bread crumbs. Fry in deep, hot fat.

Egg Nests—Separate two eggs, keeping yolks whole, add one-fourth teaspoon salt to whites and beat until stiff. Toast two slices and spread them lightly in hot water and spread them quickly, pile the whites on the toast, making a hollow in each pile. Put one-fourth teaspoon butter in each hollow, add the yolks and bake three minutes in a hot oven.

CREAM-OF-CELERY SOUP.

One and one-half cups lamb or chicken stock, one and one-half cups milk, one-half cup cream, two stalks celery, one potato, one small onion, two sprigs parsley, bit of bay leaf, few grains mace, two tablespoons butter or oil, salt and pepper to taste, few grains soda.

Prepare vegetables, and chop them all together till very fine; add to the stock and let simmer till tender, about thirty minutes. Heat the milk, cream and bay leaf together in a double boiler, add the stock and vegetables, together with a few grains of soda and then beat in the butter and pepper. Season to taste, cook ten minutes, add cream, which should be scalded, and serve at once.

WOMEN WAR WORKERS DUPE WITH FAKE RAIL TICKETS.

London, Jan. 5.—In reporting an increase of more than one hundred percent in ticket frauds by passengers since the war began, the Great Western Railway Magazine says the chief offenders are women and girl munition workers. This year one railway company alone has detected five hundred and thirty persons for fraud.

Conferring a Title.

While he was governor of Kentucky Proctor Knott sent to the Hon. Stoddard Johnston a certificate, officially signed and bearing the impress of the great seal of the state, duly commissioning him as "Mister," which he said was a distinctive and honorable title that no Kentuckian had ever previously borne.

The Chicago Diet Squad

"The Chicago Diet Squad" succeeded in cutting down the average cost of each meal to 8-1/2 cents in spite of the high cost of foods. And the squad wanted fat and hearty. The most expensive foods are generally the least nutritious. Two Shredded Wheat biscuits with milk make a perfect meal, containing all the nutriment any man or woman needs for a half day's work and at a cost of four or five cents. Shredded Wheat has all the body-building material in the whole wheat grain in a digestible form. For breakfast with milk or cream, or for any meal with fruits. Made in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The water in which cabbage, onions, turnips or Brussels sprouts are cooked should be changed every quarter of an hour. Of course, the fresh water used should be boiling when poured over the vegetables. The change of water makes the vegetables less strong in flavor.

The water used in making bread should be scalded and then allowed to become lukewarm before being mixed with the other ingredients. Milk, too, should be brought to the scalding point and then cooled before being used in bread making.

Marjory Surprises Everybody With Her New Plan to Help Tom

"Tom is so much better that I must be going home and my new plan to help him," Marjory was sitting in the block of afternoon sun that found its way into the little bedroom. His mother unfolded the bed and beating up the pillows as she spoke.

"Unfold away," said Tom, leaning back with a smile of content on his pale face. "I want to take you and Marjory home with me and keep you till you are well and strong again." The mother beamed with pleasure.

"You think it is time someone else should have a try for me," said Tom. "Well, the house is so much larger than I am, I am sure you will be comfortable."

"I don't think you should say so for anything," was Tom's quick response. "She certainly has been a dear to take us in with our collapsed fortunes."

"We agree heartily about Aunt Lois," was the hearty response. "She is a dear woman. That is not the point. I want you where I can take care of you and as long as you are here, you should help me out."

"It is most awfully good of you, mother dear, but I dread to do so. Father is now while I am so down and out. You know how I feel about it, and why. Father always promised my downfall and he has abundant proof that he was right in his judgment."

"Don't feel that way, dear. He is full of sorrow over your loss and suffering. He spoke of my bringing you home with me in his last letter. The mother had always been a buffer between the two.

THAT EXASPERATING PERSON.

We were speaking of conversational awkwardness the other night, approving of the plan (which I outlined to you) of a course in social conversation.

Someone spoke of the monologist who never gives you a chance and then someone else said that Margaret O'Sullivan's characterization of Carlisle. "He does not converse, only harangues."

The kind of person I mind the most is the one who asks a question and then doesn't give you a chance to answer it.

That is an exasperating type of person, isn't it?

Wived all met her—I think it is usually a woman.

Of course, there are different species of the type.

The Flutter-Minded Woman.

There is the sprightly, intensely interested in everything, butterfly-minded woman, who asks you a question and before you have a chance to answer it, she asks you another.

I was in a gathering with a woman of this type the other night. We were discussing the presidential election. She asked a man who has a reputation for knowing a good deal about political conditions what the Democratic party in the south stood for. Here was a subject to his liking. "That isn't a big question," he said, and was about to go on at length when she broke in:

"Isn't it? There is so much to politics and so many things I want to know about. There's the tariff and free trade. I'm dying to have some one explain it to me. Which do you believe in?"

He didn't try to tell her.

The look on that man's face was a study. He gave a vague answer and fell into a kind of snoring-silence.

Then there is the type who asks formal questions for politeness' sake and either breaks in on your answer or else by their preoccupied air and vacant eye that they are not listening to you.

And then there is the type who are so full of their own affairs that they ask you a question about yours and before you can answer tell you about theirs.

She Doesn't Care What Happens to You.

For instance, "How is your little girl? Did you know mine had had the measles? Yes—," and then follows a long description of the measles, and a complete forgetfulness of her interest in your little girl who may have had the scarlet fever for all she knows.

To be asked a question and not give an answer to answer it gives one an uncomfortable feeling, a sense of interrupted functioning. If one isn't going to wait for an answer, better not ask a question at all.

JUST A FEW TIME ECONOMIES HOUSEKEEPERS MAY PRACTICE

Time is money, says the business man.

It's often worth more than money to the housekeeper.

And there are as many ways of saving time in housekeeping as there could possibly be in business.

"I have three methods of saving time, which help me more than anything else," said one experienced housekeeper, known for her ability to accomplish much work under any sort of inconvenience.

"There are three things which I always have in my house, and which enable me to get a meal in short order, even though I am not expecting anybody for dinner. These three things are a bottomless mayonnaise jar, a French dressing jar, and a biscuit tin."

Doubtless, you wonder what all this means. It's simply this. This housekeeper never allows her mayonnaise jar to be empty. She uses a recipe which is all her own (and every woman has one of them). Instead of using one egg, however, she uses several, and likewise with all the ingredients of the dressing. This makes a large supply, which if well sealed and kept in a cool dark place, will retain its freshness for some time. When a portion has been used, it is replaced at the earliest opportunity. Thus she always has a supply.

And so it is with the French dressing. She makes a good sized quantity of that according to her favorite rule. Sometimes this is divided into two parts, and one part is more highly seasoned than the other.

And then the biscuit tin. This is really a wonderful saving of time.

She mixes and sifts together the ingredients for baking powder biscuits, that is the dry ingredients, using two or three times the amount of her recipe. This is finely pulverized, and placed in a tightly covered tin. If then she discovers at the last moment that she has no bread, or she suddenly determines to make biscuits, all she has to do is to turn out the desired amount of the mixture, soften it with the necessary amount of milk or water, and lo, her biscuits are read, in no time.

These are all comparatively small economies in time, but they effect a big saving nevertheless.

MUSTEROLE—QUICK RELIEF! NO BLISTER!

It Soothes and Relieves Like a Mustard Plaster Without the Burn or Sting

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with the oil of mustard. It does all the work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster—does it better and does not blister. You do not have to bother with a cloth. You simply rub it on—and usually the pain is gone!

Many doctors and nurses use Musterole and recommend it to their patients. They will gladly tell you what relief it gives from sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

Easy Way to Get Rid of Itching

Don't worry any more about that itching skin trouble. Just get a jar of resinal ointment and a cake of resinal soap at any drug store. With the resinal soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the resinal ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again.

Choosing Your Shampoo Soap

If you select a soap that contains soothing, healing properties like the resinal balsam in resinal soap, you are not likely to have trouble with dandruff, loss of hair or itching scalp. Ideal for the youngsters' heads.

"K"

By Mary Roberts Rinchart

(Copyright, by McClure Publications, Inc.)

Joe went up the staircase. At the top, on the landing, he confronted Wilson. He fired at him without a word.

He Fired at Him Without a Word.

saw him fling up his arms and fall back, striking first the wall, then the floor.

The buzz of conversation on the porch suddenly ceased. Joe put his revolver in his pocket and went quietly down the stairs. The crowd parted to let him through.

Carlotta, crouched in her room, listening, not daring to open the door, heard the sound of a car as it swung out into the road.

CHAPTER XXII.

It was the Lamb who received the message about Wilson; and because he was not very keen at the best, and because the news was so startling, he refused to credit his ears.

"Who is this at the phone?" "Le Moyne's my name. Get Dr. Ed Wilson at once. Doctor Wilson, the surgeon, has been shot," came slowly and distinctly. "Get the staff here and have a room ready. Get the operating room ready, too."

The Lamb awakened then, and roused the house. He was incoherent, rather, so that Doctor Ed only learned the truth when he got to the hospital.

"Who has been shot? I thought you said—"

The Lamb turned pale at that, and braced himself.

"I'm sorry—I thought you understood. I believe it's not—not serious. It's Doctor Max, sir."

Doctor Ed, who was heavy and not very young, sat down on an office chair. Out of sheer habit he had brought the bag. He put it down on the floor beside him, and moistened his lips.

"Is he living?" "Oh, yes, sir. I gathered that Mr. Le Moyne did not think it serious."

He fled, and Doctor Ed knew he fled. The Lamb stood by the door, and Doctor Ed sat and waited. The office clock said half after three. The bag with the dog collar in it was on the floor. He thought of many things, but mostly of the promise he had made his mother. Cold beads of sweat stood out on his forehead.

"I think I hear them now, sir," said the Lamb, and stood back respectfully to let him pass out of the door.

Carlotta stayed in the room during the consultation. No one seemed to wonder why she was there, or to pay any attention to her. The staff was stricken. They moved back to make room for Doctor Ed beside the bed, and then closed in again.

Carlotta waited, her hand over her mouth to keep herself from screaming. Surely they wouldn't let him die like that! When she saw the phalanx break up and realized they would not operate, she ran from the room.

The staff went hopelessly down the stairs to the smoking room, and smoked. It was all they could do. The night assistant sent coffee down to them, and they drank it. Doctor Ed stayed in his brother's room, and said to his mother, under his breath, that he'd tried to do his best by Max, and that from now on it would be up to her.

K. had brought the injured man in. The country doctor, on the way in, had taken it for granted that K. was a medical man like himself, and had placed his hypodermic case at his disposal.

When he missed him—in the smoking room, that was—he asked for him. "I don't see the chap who came in with us," he said. "Clever fellow. Like to know his name."

The staff did not know.

K. sat alone on a bench in the hall. He was a man who would tell Sidney; he had said so. He would be very gentle with her. He did not want to go home and leave her to what she might have to face. There was a chance she would ask for him. He wanted to be near, in that case. The night watchman went by twice and stared at him. At last he asked K. to mind the door until he got some coffee.

"One of the staff's been hurt," he explained. "If I don't get some coffee now, I won't get any."

K. persevered to watch the door.

A desperate thing had occurred to Carlotta. Somehow, she had not thought of it before. Now she wondered how she could have failed to think of it. She went to the staff and confronted them. They were men of courage, only declining to undertake what they considered hopeless work. The one man among them who might have done the thing with any chance of success lay stricken. Not one among them but would have given of his best—only his best was not good enough.

"It would be the Edwardes operation, wouldn't it?" demanded Carlotta. The staff was bewildered. There were no rules to cover such conduct on the part of a nurse. One of them replied rather heavily: "If any, it would be the Edwardes operation."

"Would Doctor Edwardes himself be able to do anything?"

This was going a little far.

"Possibly. One chance in a thousand, perhaps. But Edwardes is dead. How did this thing happen, Miss Harrison?"

She ignored his question. Her face was ghastly, save for the trace of rouge; her eyes were red-rimmed.

"Doctor Edwardes is sitting on a bench in the hall outside," she announced.

Her voice rang out. K. heard her and raised his head. His attitude was weary, resigned. The thing had come, then! He was to take up the old burden. The girl laid out.

Doctor Ed had sent for Sidney. She thought it was another operation, and her spirit was just a little weary. But her courage was indomitable. She forced her shoes on her tired feet, and bathed her face in cold water to rouse herself.

The night watchman was in the hall. He was fond of Sidney; she always smiled at him; and, on his morning rounds at six o'clock to waken the nurses, her voice was always audible. So she found him in the hall, holding a cup of tepid coffee. He was old and bleary, unmistakably dirty, too—but he had divined Sidney's romance.

"Coffee! For me?" She was astonished.

"Get it down."

So she finished it, not without anxiety that she might be needed. But Sidney's attentions were for few, and not to be lightly received.

"Can you stand a piece of bad news?"

Strangely, her first thought was of K.

"There has been an accident. Doctor Wilson—"

"Which one?" "Doctor Max—has been hurt. It ain't much, but I guess you'd like to know it."

"Where is he?" "Downstairs, in seventeen."

So she went down alone to the room where Doctor Ed sat in a chair, with his untidy bag beside him on the floor, and his eyes fixed on a straight figure on the bed. When he saw Sidney, he got up and put his arms around her. His eyes told her the truth before he told her anything. She navy listened to what he said. The fact was all that concerned her—for suddenly Sidney's small world, which had always sedately revolved in one direction, began to move the other way.

The door opened, and the staff came in. But where before they had moved heavily, with dropped heads, now they came quickly, as men with a purpose. There was a tall man in a white coat with them. He ordered them about, like children, and they hastened to do his will. The heaviness of inactivity lifted. The room buzzed. The nurses stood by, while the staff did nurses' work.

It was the Lamb, after all, who brought the news to Sidney. The new activity had caught Doctor Ed, and she was alone now, her face buried against the back of a chair.

"There'll be something doing now, Miss Page," he offered.

"What are they going to do?" "Going after the bullet. Do you know who's going to do it?"

His voice echoed the subdued excitement of the room—excitement and new hope.

"Did you ever hear of Edwardes, the surgeon?" the Edwardes operation, you know. Well, he's here. It sounds like a miracle. They found him sitting on a bench in the hall downstairs."

fore he told her anything. She navy listened to what he said. The fact was all that concerned her—for suddenly Sidney's small world, which had always sedately revolved in one direction, began to move the other way.

The door opened, and the staff came in. But where before they had moved heavily, with dropped heads, now they came quickly, as men with a purpose. There was a tall man in a white coat with them. He ordered them about, like children, and they hastened to do his will. The heaviness of inactivity lifted. The room buzzed. The nurses stood by, while the staff did nurses' work.

It was the Lamb, after all, who brought the news to Sidney. The new activity had caught Doctor Ed, and she was alone now, her face buried against the back of a chair.

"There'll be something doing now, Miss Page," he offered.

"What are they going to do?" "Going after the bullet. Do you know who's going to do it?"

His voice echoed the subdued excitement of the room—excitement and new hope.

"Did you ever hear of Edwardes, the surgeon?" the Edwardes operation, you know. Well, he's here. It sounds like a miracle. They found him sitting on a bench in the hall downstairs."

Sidney raised her head, but she could not see the miraculously found Edwardes. She could see the familiar faces of the staff, and that other face on the pillow, and—she gave a little cry. There was K. How like him to be there, to be wherever anyone was in trouble! Tears came to her eyes—the first tears she had shed.

As if her eyes had called him, he came toward her at once. The staff stood back to let him pass, and gazed after him. The wonder of what had happened was growing on them.

K. stood beside Sidney, and looked down at her. Just at first it seemed as if he found nothing to say. Then: "There's just a chance, Sidney, dear. Don't count too much on it. If you will wait somewhere near, I'll see that you have immediate word."

"I am going to the operating room."

"Not to the operating room. Somewhere near."

His steady voice controlled her hysteria. But she resented it. She was not herself, of course, what with strain and weariness.

"I shall ask Doctor Edwardes."

He was puzzled for a moment. Then he understood. After all, it was as well. The thing that really mattered was that he must try to save Wilson for her. If he failed, she might hate him the rest of her life—not for himself but for his failure. Whichever way things went, he must lose.

"Doctor Edwardes says you are to stay away from the operation, but to remain near. He—he promises to call you if—things go wrong."

She had to be content with that. Nothing about that night was real to Sidney. She sat in the anesthetizing room, and after a time she knew that she was not alone. There was somebody else. She realized dully that Carlotta was there, too, pacing up and down the little room. She was never sure, for instance, whether she imagined it, or whether Carlotta really stopped before her and surveyed her with burning eyes.

"So you thought he was going to marry you?" said Carlotta—or the dream. "Well, you see he isn't."

Sidney tried to answer, and failed—or that was the way the dream went. "If you had enough character, I'd think you did it. How do I know you didn't follow us, and shoot him as he left the room?"

It must have been reality after all; for Sidney's numb mind grasped the essential fact here, and held on to it. He had been out with Carlotta. He had promised—sworn that this should not happen. It had happened. It surprised her. It seemed as if nothing more could hurt her.

In the movement to and from the operating room, the door stood open for a moment. A tall figure—how much it looked like K.—straightened and held out something in its hand.

"The bullet!" said Carlotta in a whisper.

Then more waiting, a stir of movement in the room beyond the closed door. Carlotta was standing, her face buried in her hands, against the door. Sidney suddenly felt sorry for her. She cared a great deal. It must be tragic to care like that! She herself was not caring much; she was too numb.

Dinner Stories

"Your collection of culinary recipes is very fine," admitted the book publisher, "but I don't think it would be economically advisable to put the volume on the market at the present time."

"But why not?" queried the peeved compiler. "Because," explained the practical publisher, "all your recipes call for butter, milk, sugar, flour or potatoes."—Puck.

A huge eating competition had been held by some brassy sons of toil in a country town in Yorkshire, and one of the competitors had succeeded in disposing of a leg of mutton, a plentiful supply of vegetables and a plum pudding, the whole washed down with copious draughts of ale.

He was unanimously declared the winner and was being triumphantly escorted home when he turned to his admirers and said:

"Ah, say lads, don't thee say nowt o' this to my ole woman, or she won't gie me no dinner!"—Tit-Bits.

"Confidentially," said the undertaker's wife, "Mr. Smith hasn't paid the bill for his wife's funeral yet."

"Isn't that scandalous!" exclaimed Mrs. Gabbie. "I should think he'd be ashamed to let people see how little he thought of his wife."

"Yes, and his brother John, when his wife was buried," said the very next day.

"Ruh!" Looked as if he was glad to get rid of her, didn't it?

"Father," said Chester, "what is a diplomat?"

"A diplomat, my son," answered the father, "is a man who remembers a woman's birthday and forgets her age."

BRITISH FARMERS KILL PIGS AT BIRTH—BECAUSE OF HIGH FEEDING COST

London, Jan. 5.—Because of the high cost of feeding-stuffs farmers have been destroying litters of young pigs at birth, much to the dismay of a government agricultural committee, which has been conducting a campaign to induce stock raisers to help ward off a pork famine. Farmers defended their action with the statement that the government was allowing export of meat to Holland which ought to be kept in this country. The consequent increased price of feeding pigs, the farmers contended, made it impossible for them to make a profit on their pigs.

Hope Almost Abandoned
When She Found Remedy

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin
Relieves Chronic Case of Long Standing.

After a long period of suffering with liver and bowel trouble that brought on piles, during which she had tried many remedies without obtaining relief, Mrs. Mary J. Jewell, of Berrien Springs, Mich., heard of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and obtained a bottle from her druggist. This simple, inexpensive laxative compound brought almost immediate relief and Mrs. Jewell wrote to Dr. Caldwell about her case.

In her letter Mrs. Jewell says, "I had tried so many things for the piles, without being helped at all. I had about given up hope of ever being better. I knew it was the condition of my bowels that caused them, and after I had taken a bottle of your Syrup Pepsin I knew it was just the medicine I needed. I am very grateful to you for sending me the little book—the advice and instructions it gives would teach anyone how to get well and how to keep well."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, free from opiate or narcotic drugs, and is mild and gentle in its action, bringing relief in an easy, natural way, without griping, or other pain or discomfort.

Druggists everywhere sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for fifty cents a bottle. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

MAY CALL ENGLISH DOCTORS TO SERVICE DURING STRIKE TIMES.

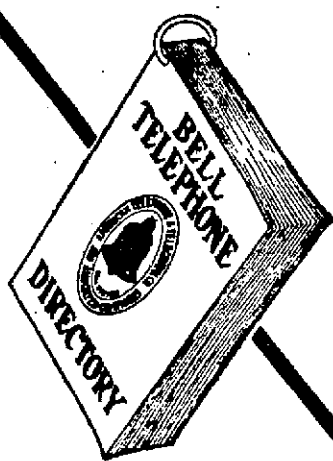

London, Jan. 5.—That private practitioners in the medical profession will be practically non-existent before the end of the year and all patients will have to go to infirmaries to be treated was the opinion expressed at the annual meeting of the Glasgow Victoria Infirmary.

The Lancet says: "There must come a day, if the war is indefinitely prolonged, when the necessary economy of medical men can only be obtained by mobilization of the whole of the available supply, so that calls can be made upon individual services when and where required. It has been felt that some such step might be taken, and we believe that the general opinion of the medical profession, judging by the correspondence that comes to us, is in a similar direction."

COPENHAGEN BUILDING HARBOR AND WAREHOUSES

Copenhagen, Jan. 4.—Hand in hand with general activity in shipping circles is going a modernization of the free harbor here which, it is hoped, will make it possible to increase greatly Copenhagen's facilities and importance as a port for transit commerce to Russia as soon as it is possible to trade again uninterruptedly. The warehousing capacity is also being increased. It is now more than 90,000 square meters, an increase of more than 10,000 meters since 1913, and plans in hand call for 122,700 square meters by the end of 1917.

Word also comes from Christiania that the old project for a free harbor has been taken up there and may be carried out, and the question of another similar harbor for transit business somewhere in northern Norway is being discussed.

Saturday night's game at the Auditorium between the Lakota club Cardinals and Ray Edler's University of Wisconsin Reserves, will bring together two teams composed of the best basketball players in Wisconsin. From end to end either team as a winner. Which one will be tomorrow night only the future can tell.

Edler has collected an aggregation of stars who performed here before and whom Janesville fans respect for their stellar playing.

Mitchell and Knapp, who last Saturday night raised havoc when with Walt Tippeco's Collegians, are to play the forwards for the Reserves. Janesville guards will have their hands full.

The Milwaukee are the classiest who have performed here in many moons.

Against the duo Captain Dutton and Everson of the Appleton team, who are to be pitted. Everson was secured by Manager George W. Caldwell this morning, and has been selected because of his splendid play in the famous three-point ten to ten game here three weeks ago. Both men will have to extend every effort to hold down Mitchell and Knapp.

Long shots will be more dangerous tomorrow night than they were a week ago. During the first half of the game they were strangers to the basket, but in the second half they showed that they could live up to their reputations.

At Center Manager Caldwell will start either Rein of the Bushy or Standlie, basketball coach at the Rockford high school, a runner-up in the Wisconsin player. Chandler will be the pivot man for Edler. He is a reserve to the regular varsity team. Chandler played here on several occasions last season.

Elliott, another Bushy player, and Atwood constitute the Lakota forward wall for tomorrow night. Against them will be pitted Edler and Gray.

The chances are that Janesville fans will have the opportunity of seeing Edler and Eddie Atwood stack up against one another, a sight they have been wishing to be able to witness for years. If they do, it will be some battle.

Gray is another university basketball man who has played here, both against and with the Cardinals.

A big crowd is looked for by Manager Caldwell. Attendance this year is on par with the close of last season, when the Cardinals were going strong and defeating the few remaining and best teams remaining unbeaten in the central west the past spring. The game will commence at nine o'clock.

WAR STOPS HUNTERS
IN EAST AFRICA; GAME
NOW REPORTED PLENTY

Mombasa, British East Africa, Jan. 4.—Game, including elephants and buffalo, are very plentiful in East Africa as the war has practically stopped the visits of hunters. Reports received here say that this is especially true in the northern reserve where the rhinoceros has become so numerous as to be almost a nuisance.

The southern reserve has been the scene of military operations, and therefore game has been used for food, but not to an extent that will cause any scarcity in future years.

Jimmy Archer may go to Brooklyn, according to a report from St. Louis. Recently, this same report said that the Cardinals may get Archer and turn him over to Brooklyn for Otto Miller, the catcher, and Ed Appleton the pitcher.

DACEY-CARPENTIER BATTLE POSSIBILITY

New York, Jan. 5.—The possibility that Les Darcy, the Australian middleweight, and George Carpentier, the French heavyweight, may meet in an American ring in the near future makes a comparison of their pugilistic careers of more than ordinary interest.

Should events so shape themselves that the French boxer and the fighter from "Down Under" face in the roped arena, Carpentier will have the advantage in weight, height and reach.

Darcy is strictly a middleweight, while the Frenchman in 1914 was a light heavyweight. The Australian has never entered the ring over 160 pounds, while Carpentier's fighting weight two years ago was fully ten pounds above these figures.

It is reasonable to assume that he has gained additional poundage in the period he has served with the French army.

There will also be a difference of between four and five inches in the height of the two pugilists with the advantage resting with Carpentier. The physical statistics of the boxers show that Darcy's reach is not quite as great as that of the French ring idol, but so far as can be judged by results there is little difference in the hitting power of the two pugilists when allowance is made for the variance in height.

So far as the records show but one pugilist—left Smith—has met both Darcy and Carpentier. The French boxer in 1913 won a twenty-round decision from Smith, who weighed 160 pounds. Some fifteen months later Darcy lost to Smith in five rounds at Sydney. In a return match fought a few months later Darcy won on a foul in two rounds. It is doubtful if Smith was a better boxer when he faced Darcy than in his match with Carpentier.

In a majority of the contests in which Carpentier has met American boxers he has given away weight. Joe Jeannette, who defeated the Frenchman in fifteen rounds, weighed more than 190 pounds. Gunboat Smith, from whom Carpentier won on a foul in six rounds, was over 185 pounds. Bombardier Wells, twice knocked out by Carpentier, was within a few pounds of 190 pounds in his two battles with the French pugilist. Darcy has faced more American ring men than Carpentier but has seldom given away weight. Clabby, McGorry, Murray, Chip, Smith and George Brown all scaled 160 pounds or under, when they faced the Australian.

Reeling a close game from the start, the Pirates and the Montreal Stars engaged in an exciting contest at Miller's last night, the second game in their series of five. The final count showed a victory for the Pirates, making it two straight. Eighteen plus were the margin. Score:

Match Freddie Welsh and Ritchie Mitchell

(By Associated Press)

Milwaukee, Jan. 5.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion boxer, has been matched to meet Ritchie Mitchell, Milwaukee, in a local club on January 16, according to word received from New York today. The boys are to weigh 135 pounds at three o'clock on the afternoon preceding the contest.

NORTHWESTERN-DARTMOUTH FOOTBALL CONTEST IS OFF

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Northwestern university has failed to land a football game with Dartmouth, a runner-up in the "Big Nine" championship contest, race last fall, was willing to play a return game at Dartmouth in 1916 if the easterners would play here Nov. 17, but the Dartmouth authorities decided that the date would not fit their schedule.

SEE EARLY DEMAND FOR FIGHT TICKETS

Large Attendance Indicated by Present Call—Good Mills Promised From Excellent Match-making.

Present indications are that the attendance at the second show of the Southern Wisconsin Athletic Association next Tuesday night will triple that which featured the first exhibition. From all places where the tickets are on sale the early demand for seats is strong. Reports from Rockford and Beloit last night were that the pasteborders were going fairly strong at these places. The fact that arrangements have been made with the Interurban company whereby the last southbound car is to be held until after the final bout, pleases Rockford fans and a large delegation is planning attendance.

The fighters are to weigh in at three o'clock at Tom Abbott's saloon. Referee George Duffy, representative of the Wisconsin Boxing Commission, will be in charge of the boys when they step on the scales.

Duffy, in a letter to the promoters, expressed the belief that the match-making for the two important bouts was good and that the battlers would extend every effort for victory. Not knowing the participants in the curtain raisers he would express no opinion.

THEY'LL COME TO CITY BEFORE SEASON ENDS

Neenah, Wis., Jan. 5.—The manager of the Twin City Federal basketball team has booked a number of out-of-town contests. Some very exciting and fast basketball, it is expected, will be played here during the season.

WE'LL SEE ABOUT THIS WHEN THEY MEET WISCONSIN

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 5.—Prospects of a strong basketball team are bright at the University of Minnesota this season and followers of the sport expect the Gophers to make a strong bid for the "Big Nine" title.

The return to the square of Stadsbold, picked by experts for the all-Western team two years hence, is expected to strengthen the team materially. The work of Carter Long has been a feature of the early games.

MORRIS MILLER

Jean Dubuc, the French-Canadian, has probably pitched his last game of ball for the Detroit Tigers. Dubuc was troubled with a sore arm all last season and Jennings was seriously considering sending him to one of the minor league teams.

In 1916 the Giants had the best batter in the National league, Larry Doyle, and finished last. In 1916 the Reds had the best batter in the National league, Hal Chase, and finished last.

Joe Tinker may be able to show major league form as a shortstop again, but he will be disproving something that many have tried to disprove during recent years, only to fail. Players who quit the game at Tinker's age seldom "come back."

Larry McLean is as enthusiastic as a youngster over his chance to play again in the majors. Larry knows baseball and is very popular.

"MAKE IT A MOTTER ONE"

In Cincinnati. He should prove a valuable man for Mathewson.

Carl Sawyer, the utility infielder of the Senators, who elicited a furor of mirth by his comical actions on the coaching line on the opening day at the Polo grounds last season, has become a movie star. If Sawyer can appear as funny on the screen as he can on a baseball field he will draw many a laugh from the thousands of movie lovers.

Ray Demmitt, who once played with the Yankees, has developed into a long distance clouter. Ray, as a member of the Columbus team, led the American Association batters last year in extra base hitting with a total of 275 bases. Demmitt made 178 hits, including thirty-six two-baggers, fourteen triples and eleven home runs.

Christy Mathewson, manager of the Reds, may have a real find in Jimmy Ring, the young pitcher of Brooklyn. Ring was with the Utica club of the New York State league last season, where he made quite a record for himself. Ring played with the Yankees for a while, but Donovan turned him adrift for more experience.

Sherwood Magee has undoubtedly outlived his usefulness as a big leaguer. It has been rumored that George Stallings is going to turn the veteran outfielder loose and supplant him with Joe Kelly, the player secured from the Cubs in exchange for Fred Mitchell.

Billy Fischer, catcher of the Pirates, believes that Burleigh Grimes, the young pitcher, will be a sensation in the National league this year. "Grimes has great control for a spit-baller and a fine change of pace. With a little more experience he will be a hard man to beat," said Fischer recently.

Although Mr. Lannin has been in the game since 1913, he has, nevertheless, owned six championship teams. The Red Sox won the American league pennant and world's championship for him in 1915 and 1916. He owned the Providence club when it won the International league flag.

With the release of Larry Sutton and Billy Sullivan it is evident the Detroit club means to reorganize its scouting staff. Mike Finn evidently is to be retained and will continue to scout the southern minors for the Tigers. No announcement has been made as to who his assistants will be.

Sutton goes back into the National league with Cincinnati. Billy Sullivan is in Oregon and says he probably will retire from any connection with baseball.

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to the division of the purse that International league and American Association teams will contend for in the inter-league games next fall. Each league will put up $5,000, all of which is to go to the players. The series will extend over forty-eight days of play, or 384 games in all. The league winning the majority of these games will take down the purse of $10,000, which will be equally divided among the eight clubs of the winning league, according to the plan announced. The argument is made that by this plan every club and every player will be kept hustling. The old story: You have got to put up money to get the ball player on his toes.

Percy Haughton, president of the Boston Braves, wants a livelier baseball. It is his scheme to improve the batting by putting a ball in use which will travel twice as far as the ordinary peller. Long and hard hitting is figured to make the game more interesting for the fans, and it makes the game better also. Haughton will have some trouble having the ball adopted, for there is always a certain element which is bound to object to this sort of change in the rules. On parks where the fences are short a lively ball would have havoc with the pitchers, for long drives over the walls would be plentiful, and there would be a lot of trouble. It would have the effect of driving up a lot of big scores for most of the games, and this will hardly be to the liking of the patrons of the game.

Gavy Cravath's hard hitting should fit in well with those fences in the Pacific Coast league. In that organization many a slugging reputation was built up only to crumble in the majors. It will be interesting to see what happens when a player with a slugging reputation in the majors tries it out on the fences in the far west.

Connie Mack has no intention of boosting the price of bleacher seats at Shibe park, and this is gratifying, although some wits will make the point that you cannot multiply zero and get anywhere.

Roy Hartzell is at home in Denver considering two propositions to manage minor league clubs. Hartzell was recalled from Richmond at the close of the season, so that he might have his unconditional release.
